Dear [insert name],

My name is [your name] and I'm a research assistant in Dr. Zachariah Reagh's lab at Washington University. I received your name and contact information from [source], and wanted to ask if you were interested in hearing about a new study. Currently, we're conducting a research project looking at how people learn and remember information.

If you would be interested in learning more details about the study and possibly participating, you may either email me back at this address, or call our office at (314)935-0212. If you call the office, please ask to speak to [your name].

I have also attached a flyer to this email.

Thank you very much for your time and consideration,

Best regards,

[Your name]
